Participatory Evaluation of our Children's Homes by our Children

For the Academic Year 2022 - 2023

"Our Orphanage is about Putting Children First"

Introduction:

The initiative to assess our children's programme conceived by SJDT is a welcome step to look into the reality of our children's lives. The children have enumerated this evaluation as they experienced their lives as inmates. It is a valuable initiative facilitated by Mr. Augustine Selvaraj and it is a welcome step to make course corrections and make qualitative changes in its planning for future implementation.

The main thrust of the children's home programmes is to provide a supportive and conducive environment for children's overall development. The children's home programme has played a crucial role in addressing various challenges faced by children such as inaccessibility of schools, lack of resources, and limited access to educational opportunities. By offering a secure and structured living arrangement, the children's home programme enables the children to focus on their studies engaging extracurricular activities, and develop valuable life skills. Moreover, the children's home programme promotes discipline, responsibility, and independence among children as they learn to manage their daily routine and chores, and personal needs.

Additionally, the programme facilitates academic support with dedicated staff providing love, care, guidance, tutoring, and mentorship to ensure children's academic success. Furthermore, the children's home programme encourages holistic development by offering opportunities for sports, arts, and other extracurricular activities. This well-rounded approach enables children to explore their childrensts, develop innate talents, and build essential life skills like teamwork, leadership, and time

★Methodology:

☆

★ We used a Participatory Evaluation Method adopted for this study. In this participatory ★ ★ evaluation study, we employed an external team of childcare specialists. They visited each and every ★ ★ orphanage and held a group discussion, explaining the purpose of this study.

Based on the group discussion an individual questionnaire was administered to the senior girls who can read and write. And they were asked to respond to the questionnaire.

For the children below ten years of age, a personal interview through which responses to the ☆ ☆ questions were collected. Then all the collected informations were combined and translated into English ☆
☆ by an expert team. Here is a kind of questionnaire that was used to collect the information is as below: ☆

- 1. The positive points that children appreciate in the Children's Home.
- 2. The points that children do not like in our Children's Home.
- 3. The points that children appreciate with regard to the Childcare givers.
- 4. The points that children don't appreciate with regard to the Childcare givers.

The objective of the study:

To get a feedback from the children regarding the functioning of our various orphanages.

☆

The children's home programme has promoted discipline, responsibility and independence among children as they have learnt to manage their chores and personal needs. It also has cultivated a sense of cultural appreciation and tolerance, as children from different families came together and learnt each others' experiences. Additionally, the programs have facilitated academic support with dedicated staff providing love, care guidance, tutoring and mentorship to ensure children to become a good citizen of our nation.
